Ombres Sourdez (Sagum umbrarum), Sarte Taillis (mastered).

*While Sadie Clarkson still remembers all of her spells, she dares not use magic again, as it risks a further, much more severe stroke than the one she has already suffered.

Signare

A burst of heat, like stepping out into summer sunshine; the taste of strong liquor and the rank smell of still water; the last note of an old, sad song.

Salvo Muñoz, wrestling patriarch

STR 60 CON 60 DEX 60 INT 50 POW 60

DB: 0 MOV: 8 MP: 39 LUCK: —

Advantages: Fast Reactions, Magical, Natural Toughness.Skills

Magic 80%, Occult 75%; Fighting 85%, Firearms 30%.

Languages

English 50%, Spanish (own) 60%.

Spells

Salvo is the equivalent of a Newtonian master practitioner, although he has trained purely in spells that can be used for attack, defence, and distraction. In game terms, he therefore knows—and has mastered—all the spells in *Rivers of London:
the Roleplaying Game*, Chapter 4, except: Rock Drill, Terra, Impello vibrato, Light Bulb, Wandering Light, Bumblebee,
The Coffin Bell, Telescopium, The Wall Banger, Clausurafrange, Seducere, and Vox imperante. Not that he knows them by those names, of course! At the GM's discretion, Salvo may also know any relevant spell from Appendix B (page @@), such as Casus levis and Sagum umbrarum.

Signare

The roar of an excited crowd; the impact of a fist on flesh; the warm, comforting smell of old family recipes cooking.

Fighting 60%, Firearms 30%.

Languages

English (own) 60%, Spanish (own) 60%.

Notes

If you want your junior luchador to be a practitioner, change STR and CON to 50 and INT and POW to 60. Substitute the Magical advantage for Fast Reactions and Natural Toughness, and replace the Track skill with Magic 60%. In terms of spells, the luchadores prefer combat-based spells; choose the appropriate ones from the Spell List (Rivers of London: the Roleplaying Game, page 179) and Appendix B (page @@). Remember to also create a signare for them, including one element from Salvo's.

Powers

The Glamour, Luck of the Demi-monde.

Demi-monde affinity

Red Cedar Forest.

Vestigia

The scent of tree resin and damp earth, the tickle of icy water running over your hands, and the tart taste of sun-ripened berries.

Gor, age 15, montanataur

STR 120 CON 70 DEX 30 INT 40 POW 60
DB: +1 MOV: 9 MP: — LUCK: 60

Advantages: Damage Bonus, Natural Toughness.

Skills

Athletics 60%, Drive 30%, Navigate 60%, Observation 60%, Read Person 30%, Research 30%, Sense Vestigia 60%, Social 30%, Stealth 30%; Track 60%; Fighting 60%, Firearms 30%.

Language

American Sign Language (own) 40%; while Gor understands English, he is effectively non-verbal and mostly communicates with grunts, bellows, and ASL, hampered by his partially fused fingers.

Powers

Luck of the Demi-monde.

Vestigia

A strong animal odour, the sense of something huge breathing down the back of your neck, a great, gnawing hunger, and the sensation of the ground shaking beneath your feet.

Special

In combat, Gor's intent is to inflict damage by headbutting his opponent. As Gor has the Damage Bonus advantage, the base damage for this attack is 1 (0 for an unarmed attack + 1 damage bonus).

Gor's first response to being attacked is to fight back. He can only do so once per combat round, so, if he is attacked again in the same round, he dodges melee attacks but does nothing against spell or firearms attacks.

If there is more than one investigator engaged in hand-to-hand combat with Gor, he is outnumbered. Thus, each round, every investigator who attacks him after the first gains a bonus die to their Fighting roll against him (but not to Firearms or Magic rolls).

Gor ignores any character who is down or suffering a mortal wound as long as there is still someone to fight or chase. If there is no one left to fight or chase, Gor begins to eat his victims, starting with anyone who is mortally wounded. However, the GM is advised to have a noise scare him off (e.g., a semi-truck (articulated lorry) honking its horn in the distance, the noise from an aircraft overhead, or Wash's raccoon-like screams echoing through the tunnels/woods), so he runs away before munching down on one of the investigators.

Greater Danger (Option)

Increase the base damage for Gor's attack to 2 (1 damage for his knife-like horns + 1 damage bonus). Also increase Gor's ability to fight back to twice per combat round due to his rage. If attacked again in the same round, he dodges melee attacks but does nothing against spell or firearms attacks. As he doesn't have the Fast Reactions advantage (Rivers of London: the Roleplaying Game, page 51), he can still be outnumbered in combat.

Gor ignores any character who is down or suffering a mortal wound as long as there is still someone to fight or chase. If there is no one left to fight or chase, Gor begins to eat his victims, starting with anyone who is mortally wounded. In addition, loud or scary noises no longer frighten him away.

At the GM's discretion, some of the bikers at Mooney's Place may be hedge wizards or fae. Change the hedge wizards' advantage to Magical, remove their damage bonus, give them two first order spells (one mastered) and one second order spell, and increase their Sense Vestigia skill to 60%. Fae bikers gain Natural Toughness, 60 Luck points, and an affinity of the GM's choice (Rivers of London: the Roleplaying Game, page 320).

Powers

Luck of the Demi-monde.

Vestigia

Variable, but usually displays elements of the powering malignancy's vestigia, along with the stench of rotting vegetation and flesh—although that may be an actual smell rather than a vestigium in most cases.

Special: Susceptibility to Intense Heat

When a being that is susceptible to intense heat suffers harm caused by fire (or heat), the damage is increased by 1 (so the base Fireball spell would do 2 damage rather than 1 damage, etc.). As all such creatures contain dead plants, they are also susceptible to the NOW spell Sarte Taillis, which inflicts the same damage as Fireball. Flamethrowers inflict Deadly rather than Severe damage (Other Forms of Damage, Rivers of London: the Roleplaying Game, page 149). Likewise, phosphorous grenades cause Splat damage.

All other weapons inflict a maximum of 1 damage against these creatures per combat encounter (not combat round)—a gunshot wound slows them down enough to allow the shooter and/or their companions to flee, but it isn't going to stop them completely. The only ways to do that are to burn them to ash, lure them beyond the malignancy's range of control so that they collapse into a soggy pile of their component parts, or destroy the malignancy's core.

Old Soldier, an example
